

Explore Natural Scotland with BritRail's Extra Day Offer Scenic Views Included

What better way to celebrate Visit Scotland's Year of Natural Scotland, than by enjoying Scotland's outstanding natural beauty as you journey along some of the world's most scenic train journeys?! BritRail invites you to discover Scotland by train, where rolling hills, rugged mountains and sparkling lakes form the backdrop to historic castles and vibrant cities. The BritRail Freedom of Scotland Travelpass is the perfect companion for taking in all these scenic views, especially as now you get an extra travel day when you purchase your pass between April 1st and April 30th, 2013.

Enjoy the flexibility of traveling throughout Scotland with a BritRail Freedom of Scotland Travelpass, including the option to take multiple train trips on each travel day, while boarding any train on the National Rail Network in Scotland. Plus feel free to keep an open schedule as you hop on and off trains en route to cities such as Edinburgh, Glasgow, Stirling, Aberdeen and Inverness, just to name a few. Not to mention that in addition to rail travel throughout Scotland, pass holders also benefit from free travel on select ferry and coach services, such as Caledonian MacBrayne ferry services and select routes aboard Scottish Citylink buses, among others.

The BritRail Freedom of Scotland Travelpass extra day promotion will extend your pass by an additional day of rail travel, valid in standard class, adult and child fares, for either 4 days within 8 days or 8 days within 15 days, plus one of course! Passengers will enjoy great value and convenience, with frequent train service between popular destinations. Take Edinburgh to Glasgow for example; with trains departing every 15 minutes, simply hop on the train of your choice and arrive in just 50 minutes!

To take advantage of this extra day promotion, buy your BritRail Freedom of Scotland Travelpass this April and note that since BritRail Passes are valid for six months from the date of purchase, you can use your pass to travel anytime in the summer and beyond.
